

Wind Blown Hair Portraits

Don't you love the feeling of the wind in your hair? Close your eyes and imagine the vent in the car blowing on you...standing in front of a fan...playing outside on a windy day...Do you feel your hair blowing?

You can make a fun picture of yourself with your hair blowing all around with some paper, crayons, a straw, and some paint!

1. Start by drawing your face and neck on the paper with your crayons. You don't want to use markers because the paint might make them smear.
2. Mix some paint with water to thin it out. If you don't have paint water and food color!
3. Next drip paint along the hairline of your portrait.
4. Take the straw and blow the paint up above your head, just like the wind blows your hair.
5. Repeat steps 2 and 3 until you've made a full head of wind-blown hair!
