Tuesday, February 4 at 1 p.m. – Join us for this enlightening presentation with Smithsonian curator Sabrina Sholts as she talks about how the very fact of being human increases our pandemic risks—and gives us the power to save ourselves. The COVID-19 pandemic won't be our last—because what makes us vulnerable to pandemics also makes us human. That is the uncomfortable but all-too-timely message of The Human Disease: How We Create Pandemics, From Our Bodies to Our Beliefs, which travels through history and around the globe to examine how and why pandemics are an inescapable threat of our own making. Weaving together a wealth of personal experiences, scientific findings, and historical stories, Sholts brings dramatic and much-needed clarity to one of the most profound challenges we face as a species. Though the COVID-19 pandemic looms large in Sholts's account, it is, in fact, just one of the many infectious disease events explored in The Human Disease. By recognizing our risks, Sholts suggests that we can take actions to reduce them.

Tuesday, February 11 at 6 p.m. – You're invited to a riveting conversation with bestselling author Waubgeshig Rice to chat about his newest book, Moon of the Turning Leaves, the hotly anticipated sequel to the bestselling novel Moon of the Crusted Snow. It's been over a decade since a mysterious cataclysm caused a permanent blackout that toppled infrastructure and thrust the world into anarchy. Evan Whitesky led his community in remote northern Ontario off the rez and into the bush, where they've been living off the land, rekindling their Anishinaabe traditions in total isolation from the outside world. As new generations are born and others come of age, Evan's people are in some ways stronger than ever. But resources in and around their new settlement are beginning to dry up, and the elders warn that they cannot afford to stay indefinitely. Evan and his fifteen-year-old daughter, Nangohns, are elected to lead a small scouting party on a months-long trip to their traditional home on the north shore of Lake Huron to seek new beginnings and discover what kind of life—and what dangers—still exist in the lands to the south.

Tuesday, February 18 at 1 p.m. – We welcome you to our conversation with journalist and author Lee Hawkins as he talks to us about the examination of his family's legacy of post-enslavement trauma and resilience in this riveting memoir, I Am Nobody's Slave: How Uncovering My Family's History Set Me Free. This book examines how trauma from enslavement and Jim Crow shaped their outlook on thriving in America, influenced each generation, and how they succeeded despite these challenges. To their suburban Minnesotan neighbors, the Hawkinses were an ideal American family, embodying strength and success. However, behind closed doors, they faced the legacy of enslavement and apartheid. Hawkins explores the role of racism-triggered childhood trauma and chronic stress in shortening his ancestors' lives, using genetic testing, reporting, and historical data to craft a moving family portrait. This book shows how genealogical research can educate and heal Americans of all races, revealing through their story the story of America—a journey of struggle, resilience, and the heavy cost of ultimate success.

Libraries Change Lives

“We all deserve to know where we come from.”

These aren't empty words to Regina Bergeron. They speak of a mission to bring knowledge and connection to families through the power of genealogy.

Her interest in family history first piqued back in 2012 when her aunt showed her some information she had gathered about their ancestors. But it was a project related to her workplace that sparked a passion for researching the past. Regina works as a chemical engineer at BASF, and on the BASF Geismar property is the site of the former Linwood Plantation. In 2020, she and a colleague began researching Linwood, especially the enslaved people who lived there. Regina came to the Main Library at Goodwood for help.

Library staff member Jan Day helped kickstart this genealogical journey. “Jan pointed me to an 1859 document detailing the sale of the plantation. From there, we visited the Ascension Parish courthouse and learned the names of 129 enslaved individuals. We were excited to learn their names, but it was bittersweet to find out that they were listed on the sale alongside cattle and farm equipment,” lamented Regina. Although the history of African Americans is difficult to research, she was determined to memorialize these human beings who lived in bondage and died without proper headstones marking their final resting places. According to tradition, enslaved people would often plant periwinkle flowers at gravesites; thus, the “Periwinkle Project” was born.

Regina learned so much helpful information about the people at Linwood, but soon she was ready to dive into her own family's history. So back to the Library she went! This time, she received specialized assistance from

Genealogy Librarian David Laatsch. Regina explains, “David was my right hand. He found census records and marriage licenses, and also introduced me to the Schomburg Center for Research in Black Culture at the New York Public Library.” With David's help, she has traced her family back for five generations and has 3,067 people on her family tree (so far)! In her research, she found ancestors of both African and European descent; she reached out to both sides and has been lovingly welcomed into the family by everyone! She's made lasting connections with “new” family members, even spending holidays with them and helping to plan family reunions.

Regina will give a presentation on “Project Periwinkle” at the Main Library at Goodwood in March. Come learn more about her amazing ancestry adventure and her desire to help others start theirs!

When asked how this journey has changed her, Regina shared, “It has made me more open-minded. I'm a complex individual with a complex family history. It's powerful when you know who you are.”

New! Seed Library at Main

It is self-serve and provides envelopes and labels for packing your seeds.

Seeds have been generously donated by local organizations such as Wild Ones and Baton Roots, as well as regional and nationwide seed companies. Patrons can even contribute seeds by placing donations into a box on the bottom shelf.

LSU Museum of Art

AT THE SHAW CENTER FOR THE ARTS

Golden Legacy: Original Art from 80 Years of Golden Books

The LSU Museum of Art is thrilled to announce Golden Legacy: Original Art from 80 Years of Golden Books, a vibrant and nostalgic exhibition opening on February 27. This delightful exhibition features sixty original illustrations that have captivated generations, taking visitors on a journey through the rich history and creative artistry of Little Golden Books.

Launched in 1942—the first full year of America’s involvement in the Second World War—Little Golden Books made high quality illustrated books available at affordable prices for the first time to millions of young children and their parents. Among the artists who contributed to the ambitious series were greats of the European émigré community (including Garth Williams, Feodor Rojankovsky, and Tibor Gergely) who had gathered in New York as the European situation worsened; alumni of the Walt Disney Studios (including Gustaf Tenggren, Martin Provensen, J. P. Miller, and Mary Blair); and such American originals as Leonard Weisgard, Eloise Wilkin, Elizabeth Orton Jones, Richard Scarry, and Hilary Knight. This exhibition also spotlights contemporary artists like Dan Yaccarino, continuing the legacy of inspiring children to love books and art.

Organized by the National Center for Children’s Illustrated Literature in Abilene, Texas, Golden Legacy features original artwork from timeless classics, offering a closer look at the stories behind the images. Families, art enthusiasts, and nostalgic fans of all ages are invited to relive the magic of picture-book classics such as The Poky Little Puppy, Tootle, Home for a Bunny, The Color Kittens, I Can Fly, and more.

This exhibition is also supported by a generous grant from the Pennington Family Foundation. Golden Legacy will be on exhibit until May 25. Visit lsumoa.org for more information.

Saturday Science

Teens and their families are invited to Saturday Science at the Main Library at Goodwood on February 1 at 1 p.m. Dr. Nash Mahmoud, LSU associate professor of computer science and engineering, will present "Professor Index: A New App to Rate Professors & Make Smarter Enrollment Class Decisions." In today's higher education system, unbiased and accessible teaching evaluations are essential for ensuring fairness and sustainability. Dr. Nash's research dives into the sources of bias in public professor evaluations (PPE) and explores strategies to address them. By combining insights from behavioral economics, social psychology, and cutting-edge Large Language Models (LLMs), we examine how students' cognitive biases shape their views of professors' teaching effectiveness. Using these findings, Dr. Nash will propose data-driven software engineering solutions to counteract these biases, paving the way for more accurate, fair, and reliable evaluations of teaching performance.

Books and Music with Kids' Orchestra

Kids' Orchestra presents high-quality music education centered around books from the East Baton Rouge Parish Library children's collection. Created to spark children's joy, imagination, and love of music, Books & Music offers hour-long programs where children sing, dance, play an instrument, experience a library book, and meet a professional musician. Parents, guardians, and friends are invited to join in all of the activities. Laughter is guaranteed.

In celebration of both Black History Month and Carnival season, Books & Music will feature the book Freedom in Congo Square by Carole Boston Weatherford and R. Gregory Christie. Many scholars believe that the music kept alive in New Orleans' Congo Square (now Louis Armstrong Park) helped pave the way for blues, jazz, and rock and roll. In appreciation of this important history, children will learn the Creole song "Eh la bas" and the New Orleans Bamboula rhythm. They will practice some African dance moves and even try plugging their name into the tongue-twister formula from Shirley Ellis's "The Name Game" song.

Black History Month Scavenger Hunt

Ready for a fun and educational adventure? Come by the Eden Park Branch during the month of February to explore the rich history, culture, and contributions of Black Americans through an interactive scavenger hunt that will engage, educate, and inspire! All participants will receive a prize upon completion (while supplies last).

Candy Collector with the Louisiana Office of Energy

Candy Collector is a "sweet" way to introduce kids to the terms "renewable" and "nonrenewable." Kids will get a closer look at how long energy sources last when using only nonrenewable sources and when incorporating renewable sources of energy. The Louisiana Office of Energy will begin with a brief presentation on resources, followed by an interactive game with prizes for the winners! Come on down to the Bluebonnet Regional Branch on Tuesday, February 11 at 10:30 a.m. and play Candy Collector! Registration is required. Call 763-2260 to register.

Choose Your Own Adventure

Test your survival skills on Saturday, February 15 at 3 p.m. at the Baker Branch! Kids ages 9-13 can join their friends on the third Saturday of each month to discover who has the best survival instincts. We'll read through a Choose Your Own Adventure book, and you'll be in charge every step of the way. If the group can't agree, you'll compete in mini games to determine your next action.

Story Walks

Literacy and exercise go together! Visit one of our Story Walks today! There are numbered stations near each of the locations below. Each station has 1-2 pages of a children's book, plus a suggestion for physical activity as you travel to the next station. At the last station, there will be a story-related worksheet for the children to take home. See below for branches and this month's story titles:

- Main Library at Goodwood: The Year We Learned to Fly by Jacqueline Woodson
- Baker Branch: Dog vs. Strawberry by Nelly Buchet
- Carver Branch: A Unicorn Named Sparkle and the Perfect Valentine by Amy Young

BOOK CLUB

Young Bookworms Book Club

Kids ages 9-11 are invited to join the Young Bookworms Book Club! YBWBC members will discuss Just Right Jillian by Nicole D. Collier at the Bluebonnet Regional Branch on Monday, February 24 at 4:30 p.m. The book selection for next month's meeting, Chris Grabenstein's Max Einstein: The Genius Experiment, will also be introduced. After the book discussion, members will weave bracelets and bookmarks using yarn, straws, and other materials. Registration is required. To register, please call 763-2260.

Press Start!

East Baton Rouge Parish Library's Press Start! Ready, Set, Read! program equips children ages 2-4 with early literacy skills that will enable them to enter kindergarten with confidence! Parents and caregivers can stop by the Children's Room of any Library location to pick up a booklet full of fun activities that focuses on beginner reading and math concepts. Children start with Booklet One, work their way through the program at their own pace, and earn rewards along the way.

Each monthly Press Start booklet:

- Features a new letter, number, color or concept
- Follows state curriculum guidelines for children ages 2-4
- Includes simple activities to incorporate into your daily routine
- Highlights community events for kids
- Offers helpful parenting tips
- Recommends books for reading to your child

This month's Press Start! booklet is brought to you by the letter B; the number 2; and the color, red!

Storytime at the Library

Storytime gives children an excellent introduction to books and the Library. It increases their attention spans and develops their social skills by involving them in stories, poetry, and songs. The Children's Services staff hopes Storytime will be an enjoyable experience for each child, leading to a lifelong love of books and reading.

Stuffed Animal Sleepover Success

The Children's Department at the Main Library at Goodwood held a stuffed animals sleepover in January! Kids brought stuffed animals for a special storytime and left them behind for a sleepover in the Library. The children picked up their stuffed animals the next day, along with a special book full of pictures showing fun activities that the stuffed animals participated in overnight, such as riding in the elevator and on the book return conveyor belt, roasting marshmallows on the rooftop terrace, and sliding down the stairs!
